First Night Concert at Arlington Street Church

"Serious and Light Music for Organ"

Chapter members Fred MacArthur, David Chalmers, and Heinrich Christensen will perform at Arlington Street Church this year! Because the construction at Copley Square will not be finished in time for the annual First Night celebration, the First Night committee will not be scheduling any events at Trinity Church this year. The 1957 Aeolian-Skinner organ at the Arlington Street Church will be a grand showcase for our performers, and the location directly on Boston Common will provide us with a highly visible concert venue. Admission is by First Night button as always, which will be available in numerous locations.

Arlington Street Church is on the corner of Arlington and Boylston Streets, at the Green Line Arlington Stop. Do NOT attempt to drive into the center of the city for First Night, as many of the streets in the downtown area will be closed for pedestrian traffic.

Upcoming events:

Monday, January 26, 2004

Craig Whitney, author of "All the Stops," comes to the Organ Library for a presentation and book-signing. More information is available elsewhere in this newsletter.

Concert Series, Recording to Benefit Organ Restoration

Holy Name Church in West Roxbury has launched a concert program and a CD recording to benefit restoration of their 1937 3m Wicks organ. The organ, recently featured by The Organ Historical Society at their national convention, is an exceptional instrument, designed by Henry Willis in conjunction with the Wicks company. In addition, Holy Name is renowned for its exceptional acoustics. The two together provide a wonderful foundation for sacred music.

To aid in this effort, Holy Name Music Director and Tenor, Thomas Manguem, and organist Edward Broms have recorded a CD of hymn favorites entitled "The Holy City" which will be available at the concerts and through the Holy Name Rectory office as a gift for a donation of $50 or more.

Please see the calendar for the various concerts that are a part of this series.

Regional Councillor's Message

A few weeks ago I represented our New England region of AGO at the fall National Council meeting in Los Angeles. Included with our meetings was a "show and tell" of various Los Angeles 2004 national convention organs and sites. Among the spectacular venues to be used, we had an opportunity to have a complete tour of the new Disney Hall just three days before its Inaugural Gala event. The Disney performance hall is indeed colorful and spectacular! I quote from Robert Campbell, Boston Globe correspondent, who recently stated "with 6125 pipes, many covered in wood, it looks like an explosion in a lumberyard and becomes a metaphor for the zest and energy of the entire building." (Oct.25,2003, C1 article) I think all of us were totally blown away by Disney Hall, as well as the new LA Cathedral and its organ. Though I could go on and on about everything I saw and experienced, I would only say to each of you....ATTEND THE LA CONVENTION.

Early this fall, I held a retreat for our Region I Deans. We discussed conventions and how important they are in providing us an opportunity for education, inspiration, and socialization within our profession. Obviously, cost is always a factor; one way to cost-cut is by sharing a room. As you read The American Organist, you will see registration forms and information on housing. Register early and get the best registration fee! If you'd like to share a room, but do not know who else is going, I invite you to send your name, address, phone number, email info to me: toeppner4@charter.net. I will collect this information and disseminate it to all who are seeking a roommate. You can then contact others and hopefully make arrangements. The other thing that I would suggest is to keep checking Travelocity.com or Expedia.com for low fares.

Lois Toeppner, Region I Councillor

Organ Library News

“A RIOT TO GET IN TO AN ORGAN RECITAL!”

Craig Whitney, Speaker

Monday, January 26, 7:30pm
BU School Of Theology, 745 Comm Ave, Boston

Author and assistant managing editor of the New York Times, Craig Whitney, will be a guest of the Boston Chapter. He has recently written the now popular book All the Stops, reviewed in our September Newsletter and other publications. The main thrust of his talk will be about what organists can do to bring the instrument and its music closer to the classical music mainstream. He will talk about his book, the research that went into it (part of which was accomplished at the Organ Library), and will answer questions. Buy a copy for Christmas and bring it with you for signing. (There will be also copies available for purchase at the lecture.)

Craig Whitney graduated from Harvard College in 1965, majoring in French history and literature, and studied organ privately. Since then, he has worked for the New York Times on assignments all over the world. He now oversees the newspaper's front page and its production on weekday evenings.

Mark the date on your 2004 calendar now for this singular opportunity to hear what this articulate and influential professional has to say about organists, the history and the future of the organ. (More details, including the location of this program at Boston University will be forthcoming in the January Newsletter)
